EMPLOYER INCENTIVES
For Hiring Individuals With Disabilities:

- Tax Incentives
- High retention. Lowest attrition rate of any employee group in the country. (They complete their work and stay on the job longer).
- Increase pool of qualified applicants and productivity in all work groups because people with disabilities motivate other employees.
- Reduced cost for training, recruitment and turnover.
- Increase customer base and morale of all workers.
- Improve safety record; decrease accidents.
- A more diverse workforce appeals to a larger, more diverse customer base resulting in higher profits; 87% of the public prefer to give their business to companies that hire people with disabilities.
- High purchasing power of people with disabilities reduces number of families living in poverty and contributes to the local economy.

- Please contact me. I’d like to know more about the H.I.T. Team or how I can contribute.
- Count me on the H.I.T. Team! I want to contribute or participate.
- Be a mentor for a student exploring careers and employment.
- Host job shadowing at my place of business or agency/organization.
- Provide volunteer opportunities.
- Present work or life skills information to small groups of students.
- Consider hiring students with disabilities for part-time or post high school employment.
- Serve on an advisory committee: Promote the H.I.T. Team mission and how businesses and the community benefit from hiring individuals with disabilities and/or help create a program to make students aware of employment opportunities and skills needed to achieve successful, independent living.
- Attached is a note describing other ways I could contribute to the H.I.T. Team.

As a community leader your insight, influence, and involvement will create a positive environment for all students to transition into being successful, independent adults. Your comments, questions, and ideas are always welcome!

THANK YOU for your time and interest in the H.I.T. Team!

Reprinted from Transition Teaming:26 Strategies for Interagency Collaboration, by P. Noonan, p. 25. Copyright 2014 Council for Exceptional Children. All rights reserved.